A SOCIOLOGICAL STUDY OF THE RECENT ANTHRACITE STRIKE.

Written by C. L. Dering.

During the recent anthracite strike, C. L. Dering, western sales agent for S. C. Schenck, Bedford building, Chicago, received a letter from an Episcopal clergyman, assuming that he would defend the operators in their position. This letter indulged in the usual fallacious arguments which were extant in the public mind at that time. At some points it was bitter in its criticism of the operators and at others a superficial form of argument was advanced, which to the unthinking and ignorant might appeal, but which, when all the facts are known, would have but little weight. Mr. Dering has replied to this letter in such a way and so completely that his answer forms a sociological study of the conditions pertaining to this strike. It is reproduced in part and should be read by every one in the coal trade, who cares to go beneath the surface conditions and who is interested in the strike subject. The arguments advanced by the clergy in the recent industrial struggle were so similar and so largely based upon misinformation that it is unnecessary to give the letter written to Mr. Dering. It is enough to say that it was similar to most of the public utterances of the clergy at that time. Here is Mr. Dering's reply:

Your letter has been constantly before me. It seemed deserving of more careful reply than I could give it without considerable consideration. I could not but feel that you were wrong; in fact, I know you are wrong in your assumption concerning coal mining; but how best to answer without going too deeply into detail has bothered me. I could not but feel that you had set up a man of straw and then proceeded to demolish him. Your argument, sound enough, perhaps, if the premises were correct, reminded me of an old school professor of mine. Sometimes he used to catch me wholly unprepared; yet, I, slow to confess myself at a loss, would get up and elucidate most fully. He would hear me patiently to the end, and then, shaking his head, would say, "Very ingenious, but not correct."

Taking Current Report for Fact.

You will pardon me, if I make you the same criticism. Your argument cannot be right, because your facts are wrong. You have taken current report for fact, when, in general, it is pure fiction. You have put a meaning into my words entirely foreign to them. "A fight to the finish" does not mean murder and bloodshed—though the action of the miners would make it seem so.

Let me tell you some of your premises as they occur: You talk of "crushing to earth the man who, in all truthfulness, declares that he and his little ones cannot live as men, women and children should live, on the paltry sum of $925 a year." The drunken, the lazy, the shiftless, those who work but one or two days a week, may combine to make an average that brings the general earning somewhere near that sum, but the real earning capacity of an industrious miner is two, three and four times that amount. Why talk of "crushing to earth"? Was anyone crushing me to earth? When, as a boy, I worked for 50 cents a day sawing wood or weeding my neighbor's garden—25 cents a day less than the breaker-boys earn under the tyranny of the anthracite operators?

Question Was to Arbitrate What?

"The sentiment of the nation," you say, "was shocked because the operators refused to arbitrate." Arbitrate what? Arbitrate whether they should run their own business or turn it over to Mr. Mitchell and his labor union to run? Solely that and nothing else. I quote you from a letter written in October by Ethelbert Talbot, bishop of central Pennsylvania, whose diocese includes the whole anthracite mining region:

"In the first place the striking miners precipitated the crisis and went out at a time when no real grievance existed which could not have been adjusted peaceably. It is now well known and even admitted by their leaders that the crux in the whole matter is the recognition of an organization known as the Miners' union. The Miners' union is not incorporated and has no moral or financial responsibility. To grant this demand for recognition means that the operators shall no longer manage their own business, but it shall be in the last resort in the power of an organization to which the owners must appeal for consent to employ or dismiss even a breaker-boy or incompetent or worthless miner."

"It is evident that no business can be so conducted and that no private individual could or would stand such dictation for a moment. It further means that no man can hereafter work in the mines unless he belongs to the union. In other words, it denies to the American citizen the sacred right to sell his labor in the open market whenever he can secure his price. This is a denial of individual liberty to the workman, which he ought to be the first to resent."

"But," some will say, "why not refer the question to a board of arbitration chosen by both sides; why do the operators refuse so reasonable and fair a solution of the difficulty?" In reply it cannot be too plainly said that the operators are ready and always have been ready to arbitrate questions of wages and conditions of labor with their own men. But how can the question of whether a man has the right to conduct his own business be submitted to arbitration? For it must be borne in mind that the main issue is not as to the method of conducting the business and as to the wages and hours, but as to whether the management shall be in the hands of those who own the business. For the operators to surrender this inherent right would be not only a calamity to all the industrial interests of our country, but an infringement of personal liberty, repugnant to the genius and spirit of Americanism."

Is a Quotation From a Clergyman.

Bear in mind that this is no quotation from a "yellow" journal, but from an Episcopal bishop, who talks of matters within the diocese in which he lives and works.

The operators from the first expressed themselves as willing to arbitrate any local differences that might arise, and to receive their men and to discuss with them candidly any subject of disagreement that might come up. No one who has not suffered under the tyranny and oppression of powerful labor organizations can in the faintest degree appreciate the situation in which the anthracite operators refused to place themselves.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

The President Fixes Thursday, November 27, as a Day of Thanksgiving.

Washington, Oct. 20.—President Roosevelt today issued his proclamation designating Thursday, November 27, as a day of thanksgiving. The proclamation is as follows:

According to the yearly custom of our people, it falls upon the President at this season to appoint a day of festival and thanksgiving to God.

Over a century and a quarter has passed since this country took its place among the nations of the earth, and during that time we have had, on the whole, more to be thankful for than has fallen to the lot of any other people. Generation after generation has grown to manhood and passed away. Each has had to bear its peculiar burdens, each to face its special crisis, and each has known years of grim trial, when the country was menaced by malice, domestic or foreign levy, when the hand of the Lord was heavy upon it in drouth or flood or pestilence, when in bodily distress and anguish of soul it paid the penalty of folly and a forward heart. Nevertheless, decade by decade we have struggled onward and upward; we now abundantly enjoy material well being, and, under the favor of the Most High, we are striving earnestly to achieve moral and spiritual uplifting. The year that has just closed has been one of peace and of overflowing beauty. Rarely has any people enjoyed greater prosperity than we are now enjoying. For this we render heartfelt and solemn thanks to the Giver of good, and we seek to praise Him, not by words only, but by deeds, by the way in which we do our duty to ourselves and to our fellow men.

Now, therefore, I, Theodore Roosevelt, President of the United States, do hereby designate, as a day of general thanksgiving, Thursday, the twenty-seventh day of the coming November, and do recommend that throughout the land the people cease from their ordinary occupations, and in their several homes and places of worship render thanks unto Almighty God for the manifold blessings of the past year.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington, this twenty-ninth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand, nine hundred and two, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and twenty-seventh.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

By the President:

JOHN HAY, SECRETARY OF STATE.

LOCOMOTIVE BLASTS

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad has put four extra express cars it happens to have on hand at the present time into the freight service. The cars will be used until needed in the passenger service in carrying first-class merchandise between Louisville, Nashville, Birmingham and Montgomery. The cars are not needed just at present in the regular passenger train service and are being used to haul freight rather than have them remain idle. This would not be done if freight cars were plentiful. The road has always had a reputation of handling its freight very promptly.—Nashville American.

The superintendents and roadmasters of the Illinois Central railroad system reached Louisville Tuesday on their annual inspection of the system. A special train left Chicago for a tour of all the Illinois Central Southern lines. The itinerary included visits to Memphis, Cairo and Paducah.

The 186 miles of inspection between Harrison and New Orleans was made. The New Orleans terminal was gone over Saturday, and Sunday was spent in New Orleans resting. Monday morning the trip north was commenced. The inspection that day was from New Orleans to Winona, 371 miles, with a run of twenty-three miles to Grenada for Monday night.

Tuesday morning inspection was made from Grenada to Paducah, 206 miles. The special passed through Memphis on that trip, going up the present Illinois Central main line. Tuesday afternoon the special went from Paducah to Louisville, 225 miles. That completed the inspection. On Wednesday the special returned to Chicago, via Paducah, a distance of 677 miles. The total mileage for the trip was 2,601 miles.

Louisville is to have another skyscraper. The new building will be built by the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Co., at Tenth and Broadway, and will cost in the neighborhood of a half million dollars.

Plans and specifications are now being worked upon in the office of the Chief Engineer in the Union Depot building, at Tenth and Broadway, and ground will be broken for the mammoth office building when weather permits next spring.

The Louisville & Nashville's rapidly increasing freight and passenger business has long since made the old building at Second and Main streets inadequate for the accommodation of the various departments, and the road has had a new building in contemplation for years.

Charles H. Sanders, General Agent of the Louisville & Nashville, has resigned to accept the general agency of the Tennessee Central railroad. The resignation takes effect on November 15. Mr. Sanders has been in the service of the L. & N. for thirty-five years.

The body of the man who was killed by a train on the Louisville & Nashville railroad near Empire yesterday morning was identified as that of James Moore, who several years ago was in the employ of Forbes & Bro. He was twenty-five years old and was a son of M. C. Moore, of Springfield, Tenn.

By a simple inadvertence the Bee stated recently that the Hotel Whitlow, at Guthrie, now so admirably handled by Capt. Lloyd Whitlow, was being managed by him for the L. & N. R. R. Capt. Whitlow is lessee of Hotel Whitlow and Hotel Latham, the latter being the popular Hopkinsville.

Recently freight train No. 152, east bound, ran into the west bound freight No. 154, near Boaz, on the Illinois Central. Cars were piled up seventy-five feet high. An operator failed to report orders to the conductor of No. 152, and the wreck which occurred entailed upon the railroad company a loss of $30,000.

On Tuesday there was another collision on the I. C. railroad near Boaz station between Boaz station between a fast freight and a work train. The damage was light and no one hurt. The I. C. would do well to don't tract that part of the road, since it produces more disasters than any other section from Louisville to Memphis.

J. H. Boatner, in jail at Hartford, charged with conspiracy to defraud the American Express Company, has fled suit against the company. C. J. Abbott, its route agent, and A. B. Schlitzbaum, its former agent at Fordville. Boatner seeks to recover the $28,000 he claims to have shipped, and of which he is accused of trying to defraud the company.

In a collision at Central City between an Illinois northbound passenger and a freight train Friday William Bethel, engineer, and Wallace Barrett, fireman, on the passenger train, sustained severe injuries. The two engines were demolished. Several passengers and other trainmen were slightly injured.

They had been speaking of fast runs on railroads. "That reminds me of a run we made some time ago on a train which came in from the point on the coast," said the man who wanted to add zest to the conversation, "and it was about the fastest trip I ever had on a railroad."

"The train was behind time about an hour, and I think the engineer made an effort to catch up between the city and a point not so very far out on the coast. At any rate, it looked very much like it to me. We shot through the air like an arrow. Sometimes it would seem to me that we had left the track altogether. That clicking peculiar to railroad trains could not be heard. About all we could hear at times would be the whizzing of the wind as it split by the windows. Across bayons and through marshes we rushed like mad. When we reached the Rigolets the most remarkable thing I ever saw took place. The train was traveling so fast it snaked, the water up behind it as it rushed across the trestle, and I could hear the fishes groan as we flew over this neck of the gulf. Most remarkable thing I ever saw in the way of fast runs." And he lapsed into silence.

"I'm glad you reminded me of that run," said another member of the group. "I had forgotten the incident. I can vouch for all you say, for I was on the back end of the last coach, and the water which was sucked in behind the train by the vacuum almost washed me overboard, but I held on all right, and when we had made the crossing and the waters had receded I picked up on the platform of the rear coach about the finest bunch of fish I ever saw. They were no doubt the fish you heard groaning."

HAPPENINGS IN KENTUCKY.

Auburn suffered a $10,000 fire Wednesday. D. Childers' grocery store, with no insurance, was destroyed. John Lawson's harness shop, with $800 insurance, and A. V. Hampton's meat shop, with no insurance, were also burned. The Advocate office, owned by Arthur M. Herndon, was destroyed, with no insurance. Aull & Co.'s drug store was damaged to the extent of $250. Had it not been for the strenuous efforts of the citizens of the town the whole business section would have been burned. John Lawson was overcome by heat and was in a serious condition for some time.

Growers of hurley tobacco from 24 counties in Kentucky met in Lexington last week to further perfect the organization of which James M. Gannt, of Carrollton, is president. This was the fourth meeting of the association and about 40 delegates were present. President Gannt says it is the intention of the promoters of the organization to be in readiness to take charge of next year's crop.

The Sand Lick Oil Company is arranging to shoot one of the two wells recently bored at the old Sand Lick on James Orton's farm. Nitro-glycerine will be used. The boring machinery has been moved and the company hopes the explosion of the nitro-glycerine will develop the oil.

The largest transaction in the history of the leaf tobacco market of Louisville has just been closed. It is the purchase by the Continental Tobacco Company of 2,380 hogheads of re-dried Green River Pryors from the Pickett warehouse. The aggregate cost was in the neighborhood of $250,000. In addition to this the Continental bought 1,018 hogheads of Green Rivers from the Louisville Tobacco Warehouse Company Friday, practically cleaning up this variety in the local market.

The oldest woman in the world died at Danville Wednesday afternoon. She had been living in Danville 116 years, and her name was "Aunt" Pattie Kincaid. She was a resident of Danville when the place was nothing more than an open field, with a few log huts scattered over it. She remembered distinctly when George Washington was president of the United States. Deceased was colored, and had many friends among the white people.

The Fiscal Court of Franklin county Wednesday afternoon determined that it will not pay the reward of $1,000 offered by it in February, 1900, for the murderer of Gov. William Goebel until all the indictments now pending are disposed of, and the murder case is out of court.

The postoffice at Allensville was robbed at about 1 o'clock Friday night, the thieves securing a little over $10 in money and $25 in stamps. They broke in the lock on the door and gained an entrance, afterwards completely wrecking the safe with three charges of explosives. The noise was heard by several, but no investigation was made, owing to the fact that the railroad company has in use on the line the torpedo signal system, and a fast train was due just about the time of the robbery. Those who heard the explosion thought it was only the torpedoes. There is no clew whatever to the thieves, but it is generally believed that they belong to the gang that robbed the postoffice at Fairview several months since. There seems to be a well organized gang operating throughout this section.

This is a truth, and an important truth to you. The proof of these statements is always ready for you when you want it.

THURSDAY, NOV. 13, 1902.

The Louisville Evening Post is rapidly degenerating into the yellowest of yellow journals, as will be seen from the article with scare head on the front page of Monday's issue entitled "General Strike in Kentucky Fields." The article reads as follows:

Bowling Green, Ky., Nov. 10.—Your correspondent has it on authority of a railroad secret service agent in this city today from Earlington that the 8,000 miners of the St. Bernard, McHenry and other coal companies in Webster, Muhlenberg and Hopkins counties are preparing to again go on strike for such concessions as they failed to gain in the strike of a year ago.

It is said that President John Mitchell, of the "National Mine Workers' organization, will visit the coal fields of Western Kentucky this week, with a view to settling the difference between the union men and the operators, or ordering a general strike.

In conversation with your correspondent at Central City, one day last week, an official of the miners' district organization said he was confident a strike would occur, and that the men had only been waiting for a settlement of the hard coal strike in Pennsylvania before making their demands.

As regards Hopkins and Webster counties, the above is a lie, made or manufactured out of whole cloth. The miners in these counties are too busy and prosperous to want a repetition of the scenes they experienced two years ago, when murder, riot and bloodshed stalked like grim spectres over the county and anarchy and the U. M. W. attempted to reign supreme. As to poor old Muhlenberg, we cannot say whether the miners will strike or not. They are in bondage to H. R. H. John Mitchell, and not being free moral agents, will of course do as he commands.

Turn the children loose on the streets to engage in crime is evidently the outcome of those who so strongly advocate the bill against the employment of children in mines and factories. At the same time if such a bill would become a law they should pass another increasing the capacity of the poor houses. As many widows without the support of their children could not live outside these places of charity.

We reproduce today, under the proper heading, to wit, "Official Vote," the identical election table of Hopkins county returns published in The Bee last week as "unofficial." The Bee has always been most prompt and accurate in handling returns from elections, locally, and its figures always prove up and add accurately. Our figures last week were gotten chiefly by telephone and from various sources and finally partially checked by telephone from the County Clerk's office before the official returns were made up there, and lest some error may have crept in, we did not claim them that our tabulated returns were official. They are the same figures now, however.

SOME DON'TS FOR CHURCH PEOPLE.

(Quoted from Sam's Horn.)
Don't stay at home and trot along in the same old ruts. Get out of town with your pastor and attend some of the big conventions of Christians, both state and national, and learn what is going on in the religious world.
Don't allow your Church to elect you to two offices. No official should hold two positions. A dozen-bladed jack-knife is useless and senseless. The more responsibilities are divided the stronger your beloved Zion will be.

Don't be slothful in your personal appearance. God forgives a grease-spot Christian. Cleanliness on the outside is as important as on the inside. "Wash me whiter than snow" applies to the dress as well as to the heart.

Don't forget closet and family prayer. If you are lame in this respect you will hobble all the way to heaven, and your influence for good in church and community will not be worth a swan's dying note. Prayer is the worker's vital breath.

Don't draw a stingy breath. Anything but a penurious, narrow-contracted, official. May a kind Providence save you from such a name! Leaders must be philanthropists, and bear in mind, brother, there are no pockets in shrouds. One tenth is all God asks.

Don't be a sewer-pipe. Gas from these lower channels of filth has been known to kill. In other words, do not permit yourself to be the medium of carrying unpleasant things to the pastor. Let it be distinctly understood that your calling is a higher one, and that you will encourage rather than cast down.

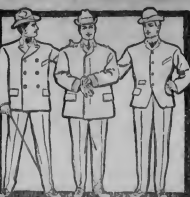

Don't sit at the end of your pew to keep out strangers. Carry in your business rounds a personal card, and with it the number of your pew, and thus bid non-church-goers to occupy it while you sit on the pulpit steps if necessary. The only way to melt the wall of ice between the working class and the Church is for every official to kindle a fire at its base. Your pew is God's, for man's salvation.

How to Start a Fire Under a Steam Boiler.
The fire under a boiler on the common-style grate bars may be started in the same manner as in a cook stove, but the results are not satisfactory nor economical. In most boiler furnaces there is a strong draft, and it is important to know how to make use of this draft if a man expects to make a good fireman of himself.

If we place a few shavings or a piece of oily waste upon the boiler grate, then light it and add a few fine kindlings, then coarse ones, and finally the coal, the fire will generally burn sluggishly. It will require considerable time to develop sufficient heat to generate steam, and a long time to get a body of fire large enough to be spread over the entire surface.

A better way is to cover the entire grate area with coal, then with a hoe clear away a small space near the door, and build the fire upon this area of bare grate. The waste or shavings will be found to burn up fiercely from the start and will require almost constant feeding in order to keep the fire at its height. This is due to the fact that practically all the air flowing from the ash-pit into the combustion chamber must pass through the small area cleared with the hoe. It has almost the same effect as a blast upon the fire, which enables an intense heat to be secured very quickly. The coal around the small initial fire soon ignites and in a very few minutes the whole grate is covered with a clean, bright fire.—In Mines and Minerals for November.

There is no couch medicine so popular as Foley's Honey and Tar. It contains no opiates or poisons and never fails to cure.

Late Literary News.

Can a woman give to another woman the unwavering loyalty which an ideal friendship should exact? Will a woman be faithful to her friend not merely while she is her friend, but after? If for any reason, jealousy or envy or the poison of suspicion part the two, will each be loyal to the past, keep its secrets and respect its obligations? If ever two women have once been friends wear out their friendship and perhaps exchange it for open enmity, they still respect the tie that has been broken. For the future, they will strike as they are able, but in doing so they will not violate their old friendship, nor use the opportunities which it gives them for inflicting pain—but is this the case with woman? Does honor mean the same to a man as to a woman? These are some of the questions which Radford Pyke asks in the article he contributes to the November Cosmopolitan on "What Women Like in Women."

Wanted.

We would like to ask, through the kindness of the Editor, if there is any person who has used Green's August Flower for the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia, and Liver Troubles, that has not been cured—and also means their results, such as sour stomach, fermenting food, habitual constipation, nervous dyspepsia, headache, despondent feelings, sleeplessness—in fact, any trouble connected with the stomach or liver? This medicine has been sold for many years in all civilized countries, and we wish to correspond with you and send you one of our books free of cost. If you never tried August Flower, try one bottle first. We never know of its failing. If so, something more serious is the matter with you. Ask your doctor for a druggist.

Lamb, Hardin County, Ill., May 15, 1880.

In justice to suffering humanity I offer the following testimonial:

In the fall of 1880 I was taken with chills and fever and during the next six months I was almost continually taking medicine. I called in several physicians at different times, but nothing I could get seemed of permanent benefit. My liver and kidneys were so aching that drops of effusion was so profuse as to render me almost helpless. I had that bronzed hue so peculiar in malarial fevers. I also had heart trouble. I began the use of Hill's Anti-Malarial Tablets and after one week I was going about, and when four boxes were taken I was entirely well. I know I could not have lived but a very short time had I not gained relief. I mean the use of Hill's Anti-Malarial Tablets. Respectfully,

Hannah Lane.

P. H. H. says he has written: "This is to certify that I have taken two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure and it has helped me. I have had no other medicine. I tried many advertised remedies, but none of them gave any relief. My druggist recommended Foley's Kidney Cure and it has cured me. Before commencing its use I was in such a shape that I could hardly get up when once down."

God give us men! A time like this demands strong minds, great hearts, true faith and ready hands. Men whom the lusts of office does not kill; men whom the spoils of office cannot buy; men who possess opinion and a will; men who have honor, and who will not lie; men who can stand before a demagogue and scorn his treacherous flatteries without winking; call men, sun-crowned, who live above the fog in public duty and in private thinking.

Prohibitionist Elected.

Oliver W. Stewart, chairman of the National Prohibition committee, was elected to the state senate from the Fifth Senatorial District of Chicago, on a straight Prohibition ticket at the last election by a heavy majority.

"That such a thing could happen in Chicago is certainly evidence that the world does move. That it could happen at all is an important historical event. The district is entitled to three representatives, but the Prohibitionists only nominated Stewart. The Republicans elected Aaron B. Norden, a Jewish rabbi, and the Democrats, Michael E. Hunt, a noted gambler.

Mr. Stewart's ability as a statesman and orator are so well known it needs hardly to be said that he will have few, if any, superiors in the senate. His district honored itself in honoring him.

Hale Johnson, chairman of the Illinois Prohibition State Committee, the Prohibition candidate for President of the United States, 1896, was shot and instantly killed. Wm. H. Harris, at Borota, Ill., Tuesday, November 4. Immediately after the shooting Harris ran to the street but was followed and placed under arrest at his home. In some way he managed to get hold of some poison, which he swallowed and died while being conveyed to jail at Newton, the county seat.

Hale Johnson was born in Montgomery county, Indiana, August 21. He served in the Civil War in the 18th Indiana Volunteers.

In 1894 he attended the Illinois Republican State Convention, at Springfield, as a delegate, where, with Captain Harts and others, a strong effort was made to induce the party to incorporate a prohibition plank in its platform. Seeing how utterly hopeless this proved to be, he joined the ranks of the Prohibitionists at once in their state convention, at Bloomington, where he was received with open arms and made chairman of the convention.

Mr. Johnson was a member of the Christian Church, a Past Commander of the G. A. R. and a Colonel of the Veterans' Commandery. In 1900 he succeeded Oliver W. Stewart, as chairman of the Illinois State Prohibition Committee when Mr. Stewart became chairman of the National Committee, and has been a member of the National Committee for years.

Mr. Johnson was married in 1871, and leaves a wife and six children, five daughters and one son.

What a Catholic Organ

Says of Beer Garden.

No matter how orderly, apparently, a beer garden may be conducted, no matter how brilliantly lighted and attractive it may be, it is, after all, for a vast number of young people, nothing more than an introduction to the messengers of the devil. The New World stands forth squarely for the abolition of every saloon and beer garden and every boulevard in the city. We would also like to see the abolition of every saloon in the city, and shall advocate strenuously the cleansing of our public park thoroughfares of all places where liquor in any form is sold.—The New World (Catholic, Chicago).

Dr. Richard Froelich, assistant professor in the eye and ear clinic of Vienna University, in a recent visit to the International Headquarters of the Scientific Department of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, gave the following account of the plague in Vienna:

In 1885, a servant of the pathological institute, while helping the physicians in their experiments, became infected with the physicians and died. In caring for this man, Dr. Hermann Mueller and a man nurse were also stricken with the disease. These two were placed in an isolated department of the epidemic hospital.

Dr. Poech, the youngest member of the Austrian plague expedition to India, where he had learned something of the treatment of this disease, asked of his own accord, to be given charge of these cases, although under no obligations to do so.

For fifteen days he lived in the isolated department, separated from his friends by a grating, through which they passed medicine and food, and connected with the outside world by telephone only.

The sick physician and the nurse soon died and Dr. Poech had to bury them himself within the pest quarters. The hospital directors thought to aid him by sending him a supply of champagne, but to their astonishment he sent it back saying he preferred to rely on mineral water and Dr.

On being released from quarantine Dr. Poech found himself the most noted physician in Vienna, and at once took advantage of the situation to open a campaign against the use of alcohol. When he announced that he would deliver a lecture on a certain date, hundreds came to hear him who would not otherwise have been interested at all. There are a number of popular educational societies in Vienna that have established the custom of Sunday addresses in the different parts of the city. Through these Dr. Poech and his friends, Dr. Froelich and Dr. Wassack, gained their first public hearing.

Then Dr. Poech was invited to address the various labor unions on the subject of alcohol, when he spoke such an interest in the subject that he soon had more invitations to speak than he could accept, and Dr. Froelich and Dr. Wassack were called to his aid. Through this united effort in course of time a total abstinence society of 140 members was formed for frank discussion of various social evils, such as liquor selling on Sunday and its associate influences. It is believed that great and lasting good will result from this beginning.

Caught a Man-Eating Shark.

Lock Rowe, Will Rowe, Charlie Crowder and their families have returned from a hunting and fishing trip to East Port, Fla., about 100 miles from Pensacola. They were gone 10 days and found an abundance of game, including deer and turkey. While there Lock succeeded in catching a man-eating shark 15 feet long and brought his head home as a trophy. From all reports this place must be a hunters' paradise, as there are any number of geese, ducks and other waterfowl there. The best part of it was the party lived cheaper on this catching trip than they could have done at home.

A Pelican's Neighbors.
J. N. Patterson, night policeman of Nashua, Ia., writes: "Last winter I had a bad cold on my lungs and tried at least half a dozen advertised cough medicines and had treatment from two physicians without getting any benefit. A friend recommended Foley's Honey and Tar and two bottles of a bottle cured me. I consider it the greatest cough and lung medicine in the world."

As has been the custom, the Bee beat all other Hopkins county papers in rapid and accurate handling of election returns from county precincts, and last week published the vote in tabulated form under heading "Unofficial Vote." This heading was used for fear some slight error might have crept into the first makeup of the vote, which was accumulated from various sources and chiefly by telephone. But the Bee's table was correct and today we re-publish it and label it "Official," as it has proved to be. The Bee's election tables have always "added up" and proven accurate.

WOOLFOLK'S WATCH.

Found Where He Hung It on a Tree Many Years Ago.

Madisonville, Ky., Nov. 12.—Hiram Woolfolk was born and reared in Hopkins county, near Madisonville, where he was a farmer. Long before the civil war, while at work in a field, he lost a valuable watch. Diligent search failed to reveal its whereabouts and it was given up as beyond finding. Since then Mr. Woolfolk has removed to Kansas and the farm he owned here has changed hands several times, now being owned by a Mr. McClanahan, who while clearing up woodland where the old field once was, found the long lost watch hanging by its ring to the limb of a tree. Mr. Woolfolk was communicated with and replied that he now remembered hanging the watch there. The old timepiece was overhauled by a jeweler and now keeps as good time as ever.

Banking Fires Under Steam Boilers.

In many places it is desirable to bank the fires at night, especially in winter. The method and the amount of coal used depend on whether the steam pressure is to be partly maintained, or merely a bed of live coals retained until time to start in the morning. Where a night watchman is employed considerable coal may be saved by instructing him how to bank the fire; allow the hot fire to burn down after quitting time, and the furnace to cool somewhat before the bank is put in. A simple method of banking a fire consists in pushing the upper layer of coals back against the bridge wall, in the same manner as when about to clean the fire. Then cover the live coals with fresh coal, which has been previously wet. The damper is to be nearly closed, and the drafts in the fire doors and ash-pit doors tightly closed. The coal for the bank should preferably be wet some time before banking so that the surplus water may drain off. Fine coal is preferable to coarse coal for this purpose as it usually forms a crust about the live coals, and retains the heat better. The depth of fresh coal should seldom be less than 6 to 8 inches, and from this to 12 inches. The flatter the bank the deeper the coal should be.

When preparing to start in the morning the dead coals and ash on the grates are removed, and the grates cleaned back to the bank. By running the rake under the bank much of the ash can readily be worked through into the ash-pit, leaving a good body of clean live coal. Now pull down the bank, spread it evenly over the grates, and cover evenly with fresh coal. The damper and drafts should be left open until the fresh coal has been thoroughly ignited.—Extract from "Firing a Steam Boiler" in Newberry Mines and Minerals.

Consumption

Salt pork is a famous old-fashioned remedy for consumption. "Eat plenty of pork," was the advice to the consumptive 50 and 100 years ago.

Salt pork is good if a man can stomach it. The idea behind it is that fat is the food the consumptive needs most.

Scott's Emulsion is the modern method of feeding fat to the consumptive. Pork is too rough for sensitive stomachs. Scott's Emulsion is the most refined of fats, especially prepared for easy digestion.

Feeding him fat in this way, which is often the only way, is half the battle, but Scott's Emulsion does more than that. There is something about the combination of cod liver oil and hypophosphites in Scott's Emulsion that puts new life into the weak parts and has a special action on the diseased lungs.

A sample will be sent free upon request.
Be sure that this picture is the form of a fish in the bottle of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

Louisville Bargain Store Closing Out Sale.

L. JACOBSON, Proprietor, next to Morton's Bank, Madisonville, Kentucky.

SALE BEGINS MONDAY, NOVEMBER 10th, 1902.

DOWN IN THE MINES.

Referring to the stoppage of all lines in the anthracite region, to celebrate "Mitchell Day," so soon after the order to resume work and at a time when every hour's production was urgently needed, the Coal Trade Journal has this to say: "Did you see anything in any of the press, yellow or other, adverse to the celebration of the anthracite miners on Wednesday last. Those sheets that were howling at the iniquities of the corporations in stopping production, had not a word to say about this stoppage. What do the miners care about the public need and necessity? Not a rap beyond using it to gain their particular end. It reminds one of all the features of petty politics, and is as vile a game as ever was played by these same politicians. Where are the bishops and preachers in condemnation of such acts? Silent!"

Will Coil is boring for coal at Nebo and has drilled to a depth of 200 feet. It is reported that he expects to strike the No. 11 vein at about 250 feet.

A belated Madisonville correspondent sent to a Nashville dally of Thursday, Nov. 6, the cock and bull story about the big coal combine, which was originally sent from Beaver Dam on Oct. 31st and refuted in the Louisville and Nashville papers of Nov. 1st. The Madisonville correspondent reiterated the statement that "Mr. J. B. Atkinson owned fourteen mines in Hopkins and Webster counties" and that he is the only operator in Western Kentucky who does not employ union labor.

This week will be the first week of full operation since the mines opened up, how dead Madisonville was, apparently, but since that time hundreds of houses have been built, the value of property more than doubled, and yet, if reports are true, they now contemplate turning their backs to him by throwing every obstacle in his way, so far as business enterprises with which he is connected is concerned. Last week they voted on a proposition to erect a light plant of their own. Thus destroying the use of the plant now operated by Mr. Bailey. But, thanks to the miners, who almost to a man stood by him with their votes, the proposition was killed.

Although the anthracite coal strike has been settled, coal is still advancing in price in the East. As high as $10 per ton being paid for hard coal.

If you want to see Secretary Atkinson shine forth in all his glory, turn him loose in one of the fraternal society meetings. The poor candidates that he gets hold of deserves pity indeed.

The first decision rendered by the commission selected by the French government to settle coal miners' strike is not likely to give much joy to the miners, because they decided against them on the wage question and, as was expected that unless the decision was it in their favor a kick would be made, such is the case. Several thousands of the miners refuse to abide by the decision and will therefore continue the strike, and of course the people of the United States will await with some anxiety the outcome of the decision rendered by the arbitration committee now taking evidence on the anthracite strike and fears are entertained that the honor of abiding by the result if adverse to the miners will be lacking, as they have here and elsewhere been known to violate agreements at will.

Among the St. Bernard Mining Company clerical force who had the Shrine degrees conferred on them last Saturday were Dan M. Evans, F. B. Arnold, J. E. Mothershead, George Mothershead, H. L. Browning and Ed J. Phillips.

The owner of the gas well at Madisonville now contemplates, we understand, the sinking of the well deeper in hopes of finding a stronger flow of gas.

The proposition to urge the government to become a coal operator was strongly opposed by the working men, who viewed such a move with alarm and who by their votes in New York State turned the scheming politicians down in the election held on the 4th. This move was considered a stepping stone towards the government finally becoming owner of all properties in the United States. As the populist party have long advocated.

One who has taken a deep interest in the outcome of the anthracite coal strike and who has carefully studied the conditions prevailing there, has just returned from a trip East. And reports finding a strong sentiment against settling such disputes by arbitration. The fact that the commission will be called upon to settle a wage question is considered the establishment of a bad precedent and a step towards taking a company's business out of its hands and running same by a commission. Quite naturally there are just grounds of complaint along these lines. No one should know more or better about the ability of a corporation to pay high or low prices than those in direct control. Hence the contention about the justice of arbitrating such questions.

Matt Ray, soliciting agent for the Reinecke Coal Co., thinks it strange indeed that Dick Overall should become so frustrated as to make the mistake of taking a pair of No. 9 shoes instead of 6's, and then not know the difference until told.

Supt. Harris, of the South Diamond mine, was down here last Sunday and reported that as a compliment to Pat Blair, one of the trusted employes of the St. Bernard Mining Co., they elected him town marshal last Tuesday.

Foreman Toombs has informed us that work on the new tip to be erected at No. 11 mine will be commenced this week. A new shaker, we understand, will also be put in there.

Engineer Joe Brown has so far recovered from injuries lately received in mines as to be able to again resume work on No. 11 engine.

Mitchell, president of the mine workers, says he will uphold the Western mines if they should, as now contemplated, strike. Some trivial grievance seems to exist, and a strike will probably take place, since Mitchell has promised them financial support. Like the Eastern mines they will try charity pie a while.

The Shamrock Coal Co. is now waiting for the bank cars, when the shipment of coal will begin. Some say the opening of this mine will necessitate the putting on of another train soon.

A strong kick has been made against Mitchell representing the miners before the strike commission, but, so far, the objection has proven futile.

In France the soldiers have been called out to quell disturbances caused by the striking coal miners and it remains to be seen whether or not their sympathies will prevent them from doing their duty, as has proven the case in many instances.

About one dozen of the new coke ovens are now completed and in use. This increases the number of 150.

A coal and iron company with a capital of $10,000 was incorporated last week by capitalists of Jones Creek, Ky.

The West Liberty Oil and Gas Co. struck what is considered a paying oil well last Friday. They only went three feet into the oil sand, and think they have a $50-per-day well.

Nunn & Pasteur, who are now operating a paying zinc mine near Marion, Ky., were among the number who became Shriners at Madisonville last Saturday.
